

Niklaus P. Lang Award 2024

The Niklaus P. Lang award is offered as an international recognition of scientific publications and is given to first authors of publications who were able to publish their work during the time of their postgraduate training.

The winner will receive an amount of CHF 5,000.- along with a certificate.

Candidates can submit a previously published manuscript to awards@parodontologie.ch along with a confirmation letter signed by their graduate program director. Manuscripts will be considered for the Niklaus P. Lang award when fulfilling the following criteria:

- Manuscripts need to be literature review articles, systematic reviews or other peer-reviewed articles published in the English literature.
- Manuscripts need to be written and published during the postgraduate educational program (before graduation).
- The confirmation letter signed by the graduate program director needs to affirm that the candidate contributed a substantial part to the manuscript.

The published manuscript and the confirmation letter signed by the graduate program director can be submitted in PDF format until August 31st, 2024.
